The demand for skilled local talent is urgent due to easing of COVID-19 restrictions and expanding their operations as a result. For us, it is better due to easing travel restrictions," a senior official of human resources said.

He pointed out that the two cooperatives arejm to open 24-hour telephone triage service will be available from 7am to 11pm which will serve to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.

Health and safety wards were advised to support the operations of the Community Health and Safety wards, which receives calls from patients for both routine and emergency care.
300 bus stations to come up near Doha Metro stations

The bus connectivity for Doha Metro stations is being stepped up further. Qatar Rail said yesterday that it is working to set up 300 bus stops near metro stations. This will help commuters get in and out of the Metrolinks lines.

“Qatar Rail is currently working on preparing 300 bus stops near metro stations. These stops will be marked by a red colour and have been prepared for facilitating the loading and off-loading of passengers next to the metro stations. Qatar Rail will also enforce its official twitter account to announce the launch of these stations in the near future,” added the source.

In line with the fourth phase of gradual lifting of COVID-19 coronavirus pandemic, Metro resumed its services at 30 percent capacity from September 12. To its presumption, Qatar Rail has announced the service of safety precautions in all the metro stations with the aim of ensuring a safe and comfortable journey for the passengers.

The announcement comes in the backdrop of the current precautions restrictions imposed by the national and local health authorities. The authorities have recovered from the virus, bringing the total number of recovered cases in Qatar to 177,762.

The Metro also reported on Monday that a total of 118 active cases are reported to the COVID-19. who was admitted in a local medical care. All new cases have been introduced to isolation and are being provided with necessary care according to their health status.

The Metro further said that measures to tackle COVID-19 pandemic have been continued in order to maintain the flow of passengers.

Katar to host International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) next month

The Organising Committee of the Kuwait International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) has announced the date of launching the fourth edition of the fair which will be held from October 20 to 24.

The event will be held at Al Hidd Park, South of Mubarak Al Kabeer and will see the participation of a group of major international companies specialising in falcons and hunting tools.

The announcement comes in the backdrop of the current precautions restrictions imposed by the national and local health authorities. The authorities have recovered from the virus, bringing the total number of recovered cases in Qatar to 177,762.

The Metro also reported on Monday that a total of 118 active cases are reported to the COVID-19. who was admitted in a local medical care. All new cases have been introduced to isolation and are being provided with necessary care according to their health status.

The Metro further said that measures to tackle COVID-19 pandemic have been continued in order to maintain the flow of passengers.

Katar to host International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) next month

The Organising Committee of the Kuwait International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) has announced the date of launching the fourth edition of the fair which will be held from October 20 to 24.

The event will be held at Al Hidd Park, South of Mubarak Al Kabeer and will see the participation of a group of major international companies specialising in falcons and hunting tools.

The announcement comes in the backdrop of the current precautions restrictions imposed by the national and local health authorities. The authorities have recovered from the virus, bringing the total number of recovered cases in Qatar to 177,762.

The Metro also reported on Monday that a total of 118 active cases are reported to the COVID-19. who was admitted in a local medical care. All new cases have been introduced to isolation and are being provided with necessary care according to their health status.

The Metro further said that measures to tackle COVID-19 pandemic have been continued in order to maintain the flow of passengers.

Katar to host International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) next month

The Organising Committee of the Kuwait International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) has announced the date of launching the fourth edition of the fair which will be held from October 20 to 24.

The event will be held at Al Hidd Park, South of Mubarak Al Kabeer and will see the participation of a group of major international companies specialising in falcons and hunting tools.

The announcement comes in the backdrop of the current precautions restrictions imposed by the national and local health authorities. The authorities have recovered from the virus, bringing the total number of recovered cases in Qatar to 177,762.

The Metro also reported on Monday that a total of 118 active cases are reported to the COVID-19. who was admitted in a local medical care. All new cases have been introduced to isolation and are being provided with necessary care according to their health status.

The Metro further said that measures to tackle COVID-19 pandemic have been continued in order to maintain the flow of passengers.

Katar to host International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) next month

The Organising Committee of the Kuwait International Hunting and Falcon Fair (Suasil 2020) has announced the date of launching the fourth edition of the fair which will be held from October 20 to 24.

The event will be held at Al Hidd Park, South of Mubarak Al Kabeer and will see the participation of a group of major international companies specialising in falcons and hunting tools.

The announcement comes in the backdrop of the current precautions restrictions imposed by the national and local health authorities. The authorities have recovered from the virus, bringing the total number of recovered cases in Qatar to 177,762.

The Metro also reported on Monday that a total of 118 active cases are reported to the COVID-19. who was admitted in a local medical care. All new cases have been introduced to isolation and are being provided with necessary care according to their health status.

The Metro further said that measures to tackle COVID-19 pandemic have been continued in order to maintain the flow of passengers.
CNA-Q welcomes new degree and diploma students for orientation

The College of North - Qatar (CNA-Q) recently welcomed students back to campus for the upcoming academic year. In an effort to combat COVID-19, there will be a mix of in person and remote learning at the College. If they are on campus, students are asked to engage in proper behaviour to help fight COVID-19: this includes social distancing, wearing masks, and washing hands. More than 1,200 students including more than 300 Applied Bachelor degree students are attending the College this year.

“An encouraging students to take an active role in their CNA-Q experience,” said CNA-Q Acting President Dr Nalan Ali Naeti.

“We have a wide variety of choices for students, including major and minor faculties and swimming pools, as well as an exciting selection of student clubs, there are several opportunities to enrich the educational experience.”

For the first time, CNA-Q will welcome Applied Bachelor degree students to campus. The College recently introduced a Bachelor of Applied Science Degrees in Maintenance Engineering Technology, a Bachelor of Applied Business Administration Degree in Human Resource Management, and a Bachelor of Applied Science Degrees in Medical Radiography.

“Applied degrees provide a mix of theory and analytical skills with career-oriented, practical education and training,” said Dr Naeti.

“We are proud to introduce these new programs to the college students, Qatar, shares its feelings. “At a time when Lebanon is suffering from economic, social, and political challenges, it is important to face the challenges bravely and creatively, to resolve a pile of rubble?”

Over 1.5 million interact with QCDC’s programs virtually since COVID-19 outbreak

To help students and their parents make informed choices, CNA-Q hosted a five webinar entitled “Government Scholarships and In-demand Majors for the 2020-21 Academic Year” to educate government scholars for the 2020-21 academic year, enrolment procedures and requirements, and registration deadlines.

Students during an event organised by Qatar Career Development Centre to upgrade the COVID-19 pandemic.

During the 2020-21 academic year, enrolment procedures and requirements, and registration deadlines.

QCDC also planned and launched two online awareness and information sessions on professional development tips on working from home and from remote locations. In addition, professionals in demand amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

In collaboration with Hamad Medical Corporation and Primary Health Care, QCDC produced a series of video clips that shed light on medical professions at the forefront line of the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. QCDC also released the electronic version of the 10th edition of its bilingual Career Guide, offering students’ wealth of information and numerous career tips including advice for those two degrees to work from home amid the current COVID-19 crisis. The Guide is available online for download and reading during the time of quarantine.

QCDC also planned and launched two online awareness and information sessions on professional development tips on working from home and from remote locations. In addition, professionals in demand amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

In collaboration with Hamad Medical Corporation and Primary Health Care, QCDC produced a series of video clips that shed light on medical professions at the forefront line of the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. QCDC also released the electronic version of the 10th edition of its bilingual Career Guide, offering students’ wealth of information and numerous career tips including advice for those two degrees to work from home amid the current COVID-19 crisis. The Guide is available online for download and reading during the time of quarantine.

QCDC also planned and launched two online awareness and information sessions on professional development tips on working from home and from remote locations. In addition, professionals in demand amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

In collaboration with Hamad Medical Corporation and Primary Health Care, QCDC produced a series of video clips that shed light on medical professions at the forefront line of the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. QCDC also released the electronic version of the 10th edition of its bilingual Career Guide, offering students’ wealth of information and numerous career tips including advice for those two degrees to work from home amid the current COVID-19 crisis. The Guide is available online for download and reading during the time of quarantine.

QCDC also planned and launched two online awareness and information sessions on professional development tips on working from home and from remote locations. In addition, professionals in demand amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

In collaboration with Hamad Medical Corporation and Primary Health Care, QCDC produced a series of video clips that shed light on medical professions at the forefront line of the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. QCDC also released the electronic version of the 10th edition of its bilingual Career Guide, offering students’ wealth of information and numerous career tips including advice for those two degrees to work from home amid the current COVID-19 crisis. The Guide is available online for download and reading during the time of quarantine.

QCDC also planned and launched two online awareness and information sessions on professional development tips on working from home and from remote locations. In addition, professionals in demand amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

In collaboration with Hamad Medical Corporation and Primary Health Care, QCDC produced a series of video clips that shed light on medical professions at the forefront line of the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. QCDC also released the electronic version of the 10th edition of its bilingual Career Guide, offering students’ wealth of information and numerous career tips including advice for those two degrees to work from home amid the current COVID-19 crisis. The Guide is available online for download and reading during the time of quarantine.

QCDC also planned and launched two online awareness and information sessions on professional development tips on working from home and from remote locations. In addition, professionals in demand amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

In collaboration with Hamad Medical Corporation and Primary Health Care, QCDC produced a series of video clips that shed light on medical professions at the forefront line of the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. QCDC also released the electronic version of the 10th edition of its bilingual Career Guide, offering students’ wealth of information and numerous career tips including advice for those two degrees to work from home amid the current COVID-19 crisis. The Guide is available online for download and reading during the time of quarantine.
New film by award-winning NU-Q professor explores hope, voice, & protest

The PENNSULA — DOHA

Silver award at the 7th Doha Film Mkt, conference this year. Since its release in 2016, Marou Nessim, which chronicles a Syrian family, has been selected for more than 30 film festivals, and has been invited to more than 30 international awards in the process. An aspiring actress turned screenwriter and director, Marou Nessim co-founded her production company Linearis Films 10 years ago, with her non-profit Linearis Films in the Middle East. Her film has been described as a story of struggle in the region, and more recently focusing on the various human consequences of the Syrian Civil War. The main character in The Translator is a male, and Marou Nessim said she “began to really understand the political choice in that decision,” while making this film. “I recognize the importance it is to be in-situ, such that my real main characters are female.”

Retail Mart opens New Hypermarket in Al Wakrah

Retail Mart has opened a new hypermarket in Abdulrahman Bin Jassim Street, Al Wakrah Industrial Area. Comprising 20,000 Sq Kd of retail facilities, the outlet was the 8th retail outlet of Retail Mart. The management announced that the new 24-hour outlet will help reduce the city's traffic during peak periods, providing their daily needs at convenient times in a high standard environment.

New film by award-winning NU-Q professor explores hope, voice, & protest

The PENNSULA — DOHA

A new film The Translator — written and directed by Marou Nessim, assistant professor of communication at Northwestern University Qatar — is a political thriller that tells the story of a Syrian man living in exile in Australia. The story takes place 11 years after the revolution, Syria had implited a lack of support for the revolt, and the struggle for translating the Syrian Olympic team in Sydney, causing him to feal the consequence of his refusal to return to Syria.

The film has just been named one of 30 films that will be featured at the Toronto International Film Festival as a part of the Annual TFF Industry Selections. Explaining the theme of the film, Marou said, “It is about finding your voice, with a subplot focusing on how peaceful protests can contribute to this change, adding that audiences cannot ignore these themes both within the specific context of the film, but also due to the larger global movements for political reform opposing near them.

Within the film, Karim, the main character, is meant to show how the peaceful protests continue to this day because of hope — the hope that things could change, that their influence could be recognized and that process might increase, and that these powers could support their ability to express their true voices to the world.

At a time when “people are losing faith in their political leaders,” he added that this is also what resonates with her as an American of Syrian descent. This is Marou Nessim’s first feature film, coming four years after her work was acclaimed at short films Marec Nostrem, which earned a

Qatar Chemical Company Limited

Qatar Chemical Company Limited, 7 Doha — Almuharraq St. — P.O. Box: 1802/19811, Doha

Makeover – Phase 20 of SIS gears up to blended learning

The PENNSULA — DOHA

Makeover – Phase 20, the Professional Development Programme of Sheraitan International School (SIS) began a series of sessions squashing a prevalent one-size fits all that geared teachers to adopting an engaging and effective blended learning model. These sessions also familiarized teachers with the National Education Policy 2020 and helped to empower teachers to kick-start the process as the school resumed on September 3 according to guidelines of the Ministry of Education and Higher Education. The week-long robotics-themed sessions equipped teachers with knowledgeable programs that were created, developed and presented by teachers and demonstrated to make blended learning effective while maintaining safe and high educational outcomes for the student.

During this presentation, President of SIS, Nassim Mourani, General Manager, Ashraf Sharafudheen P.T; Chief Development Officer Nassim Ahamed Sayed; Partner Shafi PP; Assistant Operations Manager Razim Ahamed Sayed; and BDM Hasfar Rahman. Left: A view of the new hypermarket in Al Wakrah. The outlet was inaugurated by Director Fatali P.KF and Mohamed Ali K, in the presence of General Manager Ashraf Sharafudheen P.T; Chief Development Officer Nassim Ahamed Sayed; Partner Shafi PP; Assistant Operations Manager Razim Ahamed Sayed; and BDM Hasfar Rahman.

Qatar Cancer Society (QCS) has received donations from Saleh Al Hamad Al Mana Co. The donation will be used to support the campaigns and awareness efforts led by the society to raise public awareness of cancer, to prevent and improve the quality of early detection.

Dr. Dara Al Dosari, Director of Resources Development Department at QCS, thanked Saleh Al Hamad Al Mana Co for the land gesture of supporting the QCS in the field of cancer awareness, stressing the importance of joint efforts to serve the community and fight cancer.

The management of Saleh Al Hamad Al Mana Co. said, “This partnership with Qatar Cancer Society reinforces this commitment and Saleh Al Hamad Al Mana Co will continue to support such initiatives that reflect our brand identity and ethos.”

Both organisations worked out that all companies in Qatar have responsibility to spread awareness of cancer and provide support to people living with it.

Saleh Al Hamad Al Mana Co. supports QCS’ awareness efforts

Dr. Dara Al Dosari, Director of Resources Development Department at QCS, affirmed that QCS will continue its efforts towards achieving its vision in the community by making Qatar a leader in cancer prevention and control.

The PENNSULA — Doha

New film by award-winning NU-Q professor explores hope, voice, & protest

The PENNSULA — DOHA

A new film The Translator — written and directed by Marou Nessim, assistant professor of communication at Northwestern University Qatar — is a political thriller that tells the story of a Syrian man living in exile in Australia. The story takes place 11 years after the revolution, Syria had implited a lack of support for the revolt, and the struggle for translating the Syrian Olympic team in Sydney, causing him to feel the consequence of his refusal to return to Syria.

The film has just been named one of 30 films that will be featured at the Toronto International Film Festival as a part of the Annual TFF Industry Selections. Explaining the theme of the film, Marou said, “It is about finding your voice, with a subplot focusing on how peaceful protests can contribute to this change, adding that audiences cannot ignore these themes both within the specific context of the film, but also due to the larger global movements for political reform opposing near them.

Within the film, Karim, the main character, is meant to show how the peaceful protests continue to this day because of hope — the hope that things could change, that their influence could be recognized and that process might increase, and that these powers could support their ability to express their true voices to the world.

At a time when “people are losing faith in their political leaders,” he added that this is also what resonates with her as an American of Syrian descent. This is Marou Nessim’s first feature film, coming four years after her work was acclaimed at short films Marec Nostrem, which earned a

Qatar Chemical Company Limited

Qatar Chemical Company Limited, 7 Doha — Almuharraq St. — P.O. Box: 1802/19811, Doha

Makeover – Phase 20 of SIS gears up to blended learning

The PENNSULA — DOHA

Makeover – Phase 20, the Professional Development Programme of Sheraitan International School (SIS) began a series of sessions squashing a prevalent one-size fits all that geared teachers to adopting an engaging and effective blended learning model. These sessions also familiarized teachers with the National Education Policy 2020 and helped to empower teachers to kick-start the process as the school resumed on September 3 according to guidelines of the Ministry of Education and Higher Education. The week-long robotics-themed sessions equipped teachers with knowledgeable programs that were created, developed and presented by teachers and demonstrated to make blended learning effective while maintaining safe and high educational outcomes for the student.

During this presentation, President of SIS, Nassim Mourani, General Manager, Ashraf Sharafudheen P.T; Chief Development Officer Nassim Ahamed Sayed; Partner Shafi PP; Assistant Operations Manager Razim Ahamed Sayed; and BDM Hasfar Rahman. Left: A view of the new hypermarket in Al Wakrah. The outlet was inaugurated by Director Fatali P.KF and Mohamed Ali K, in the presence of General Manager Ashraf Sharafudheen P.T; Chief Development Officer Nassim Ahamed Sayed; Partner Shafi PP; Assistant Operations Manager Razim Ahamed Sayed; and BDM Hasfar Rahman. Left: A view of the new hypermarket in Al Wakrah. The outlet was inaugurated by Director Fatali P.KF and Mohamed Ali K, in the presence of General Manager Ashraf Sharafudheen P.T; Chief Development Officer Nassim Ahamed Sayed; Partner Shafi PP; Assistant Operations Manager Razim Ahamed Sayed; and BDM Hasfar Rahman.
QRCs launches innovative state-of-the-art social assistance system

Qatar Red Crescent Society (QRCS) has inaugurated a new electronic socioeconomic assistance system, aimed at streamlining timely processing and service communications to meet all requirements of services, projects and programs.

This is part of an organization-wide digital transformation scheme, designed to develop institutional performance up to the highest technical standards.

The soft launch was attended by HE Dr. Hassan Al Hammadi, Secretary-General of the QRCS; HE Al-Mahboub Al-Mahdi, Chief Executive Director; Munir Fadel Al-Sulaiti, Director of Volunteering and Local Development; and Omar Marzouk, Director of Information Systems.

In his remarks, Al Hammadi described the new system as a quantum leap in QRCS's journey to keep up-to-date with the rapid technological and scientific advancement. He expected it to substantially improve the organisation's performance by saving time and effort and increasing productivity.

"This e-system is a unique and extraordinary step. It is an integrated software that facilitates, accelerates, streamlines communications and transactions. Also, it enables us to conveniently monitor all processes electronically," said Al Hammadi.

He revealed that the e-system was the product of hard work from the Information Systems and Local Development Sections, which aligned all expertise and skills to create such a high-technology assistance system that can effectively help to achieve multiple goals with minimal effort.

"We are proud of this innovative production which would take in giants forward on the path of digital transformation. The workflow streamlining will turn into young and proper implementation of QRCS's annual and emergency campaigns/operations."
On Wednesday night, a sniffer dog deployed by Chilean rescuers detected a scent beneath a collapsed building. High-tech sensors also give Beirut this miracle it desperately needs. Please God, give Beirut this miracle that much. Please God, give Beirut this miracle.

The Bisri Dam was partially damaged in January 2020, and the water release has collapsed, leaving a valley rich in biodiversity.

The area has seen few floods since the coronavirus started spreading, as the dams are under construction. Environmentalists and some farmers have disputed the construction, which they say will disrupt the local environment. The government of Lebanon has approved the project, which is expected to cost $244m and be completed by 2025.

The area has also been affected by the August 4 explosion in Beirut, which has left many buildings collapsed and thousands of people displaced. The government has promised to build new buildings, but many are still awaiting compensation. The government has also promised a $94.6m appeal to support the affected areas.

A view of the Embassy of the Republic of Serbia, at its current premises in Tel Aviv.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) said the number of refugees and Palestine families in the Gaza Strip, West Bank, Lebanon and Syria has increased due to the pandemic. The agency is appealing for $94.6m to support the affected areas.

The United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) is appealing for $94.6m to support the affected areas.
Mali’s military junta began talks with war-ravaged Libya’s National Congress at the end of last week in a bid to chart a new history for our country,” junta member Yacouba Diaw told the open session.

The summit was originally planned for last weekend but was called off at the last minute by the ruling National Committee for the Salvation of the People (CNSSP), as the junta is known, following平行谈 talks last Saturday.

It was also included for the transition of power to civilian ruler France to demand a swift handover of power back to civilians, the French presidency said Friday. “It is elements of the CNSP and the CMA,” an administrative source said.

Each side has long been plagued by instability, a simmering military conflict with a long-standing dispute over control of the Disi river, and an anxiety over the potential for a similar internal conflict in the Sahel at the beginning of the year.

But he said the union wanted the National Assembly of Resident Doctors (NARD) to手中的全国行政区划 as the union’s strike action from Monday,” NARD president Aliyu Babafemi Adelabu said.

“NEC (national executive council) resolved to proceed on an indefinite nationwide strike,” Babafemi added.

A key issue is the length of the transition to civilian rule. Originally the junta proposed a three-year transition, before bringing that down to two years.

A soldier stands next to demonstrators as they celebrate the start of two days of talks aimed at resolving the conflict in their country,

The junta, which said it had reached a peace accord with a pro-governmentExtras, the committee said, that the agreement required the withdrawal of forces from the city of Al-Jawal by the government forces and the formation of a new police force.

The meeting was called off at the last minute by the ruling CNSSP, which is the junta’s political arm and is not invited for the transition.

It was then included for the transition of power to civilians of the United Nations. “Congolese prisons are the most overcrowded places in the world,” the United Nations, according to the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, said.

It was hit hard in the past two years. Residents in several districts of the city of Goma are suffering. Thirty-five percent of all health workers are involved in the conflict, and the mission discovered at least 43 schools and 2,671 health facilities destroyed in Sudan.

A 16-year-old boy, who had witnessed the clashes, told the Associated Press that he hadn’t eaten since Tuesday, when the fighting started.

He said that the union was confirming that it had agreed to a meeting with the members of the Malian diaspora in France.

Police officers keep watch during the funeral of 10-year-old Nathaniel Jules who was shot by police on the Wednesday in Elisabeth Park, outside Johannesburg, South Africa, yesterday.

A 16-year-old boy, who had witnessed the clashes, told the Associated Press that he hadn’t eaten since Tuesday, when the fighting started.

He said that the union was confirming that it had agreed to a meeting with the members of the Malian diaspora in France.

Police officers keep watch during the funeral of 10-year-old Nathaniel Jules who was shot by police on the Wednesday in Elisabeth Park, outside Johannesburg, South Africa, yesterday.

A 16-year-old boy, who had witnessed the clashes, told the Associated Press that he hadn’t eaten since Tuesday, when the fighting started.

He said that the union was confirming that it had agreed to a meeting with the members of the Malian diaspora in France.

Police officers keep watch during the funeral of 10-year-old Nathaniel Jules who was shot by police on the Wednesday in Elisabeth Park, outside Johannesburg, South Africa, yesterday.

A 16-year-old boy, who had witnessed the clashes, told the Associated Press that he hadn’t eaten since Tuesday, when the fighting started.

He said that the union was confirming that it had agreed to a meeting with the members of the Malian diaspora in France.
EDITORIAL

Care, not fear

AS PART of the fourth phase and the gradual lifting of the health restrictions, public and private schools have resumed classes with all necessary precautions and protections measures in place.

According to the government’s phased plan approach, the feeding schools of students are allowed to physically attend the classes and the rest of the students continue their education at home.

Therefore each class of students have been divided into sub-class groups, in order to guarantee, with the aim of ensuring safety of students, staff who have been totally vaccinated and students and the community as a whole. The government pays high priority to the implementation of the return of in-person classes, and authority concerned is amazing people who are violating these regulations. Despite the challenges, students and staff are still a little apprehensive about sending children back to school. The Ministry of Education and Higher Education officials have emphasised the importance of following all safety measures.

For its part, the Primary Health Care Corporation (PHCC), has made all necessary preparations and took all necessary measures in cooperation with PHCC School Health and Education are making continuously close follow-up and contact with the concerned bodies and for this purpose, Ministry of Public Health and Education officials had reassured parents that all necessary precautions are put in place including test and contact with the concerned bodies of Interior H E Sheikh Khalid bin Khalifa bin Abdulaziz Al Khalifa The essential thing is to adhere to health precautions. The government pays high priority to the implementation of the return of in-person classes. The government is ready to receive the children.

For its part, the Primary Health Care Corporation (PHCC), has made all necessary preparations and took all necessary measures in cooperation with PHCC School Health and Education are making continuously close follow-up and contact with the concerned bodies and for this purpose, Ministry of Public Health and Education officials had reassured parents that all necessary precautions are put in place including test and contact with the concerned bodies.

The government pays high priority to the implementation of the return of in-person classes. The government is ready to receive the children.
Indian, Chinese defence ministers meet amid border tensions

The ministers met on the sidelines of a two-day conference of officials of the two countries to prevent the occurrence of any further action that could disturb the status quo or escalate matters in the south China Sea, according to the Chinese defense ministry in a statement.

Such a decision would create a new norm for the region, its defense secretary said.

The meeting comes as China, India, and the United States continue to push for a peaceful resolution to the border standoff.

The two countries have had several rounds of talks in recent weeks to resolve the standoff, which has escalated over the past few months.

The border tensions have raised concerns about the risk of a wider conflict.

India has deployed additional troops to the border region, while China has increased its military presence as well.

Both countries have also increased their diplomatic efforts to address the situation.

India and China are currently engaged in a tense standoff in the disputed region of the border known as the Line of Actual Control (LAC), which has been a point of contention between the two countries for decades.

Indian officials have said that the situation is under control and that the two countries are working towards a peaceful resolution.

China, on the other hand, has steadfastly rejected India’s demands and has reiterated its claim to the region.

The tension has also raised concerns about the stability of the region and the potential for wider regional instability.

In addition to the border standoff, India and China have also been engaged in a digital war, with each country accusing the other of cyber attacks.

The two countries have a long history of border disputes, with the current standoff being the most severe in decades.

The border tension comes at a time when both countries are dealing with the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has strained their economies and health systems.

India has been the worst-hit country in the region, with over 10 million confirmed cases and over 300,000 deaths, while China has reported over 90,000 cases and over 4,600 deaths.

The border tension is likely to have a significant impact on the region’s economy, as both countries are major players in the global economy and their trade and investment relations are important for the region.

The situation is likely to continue to be tense in the coming weeks, with both countries preparing for further rounds of talks.

The border tension is also likely to have implications for the wider region, as it could affect the stability and security of the region and could lead to further tensions with other countries in the region.

The situation is likely to be closely watched by other countries in the region, as well as by international organizations and the United Nations.

In addition to the border tension, India and China have also been engaged in a digital war, with each country accusing the other of cyber attacks.

The two countries have a long history of border disputes, with the current standoff being the most severe in decades.

The border tension comes at a time when both countries are dealing with the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has strained their economies and health systems.

India has been the worst-hit country in the region, with over 10 million confirmed cases and over 300,000 deaths, while China has reported over 90,000 cases and over 4,600 deaths.
Typhoon Haishen heads for Japan packing 'record' winds and rain

TOKYO — The first typhoon of Japan’s worst rainy season hit the southern island of Kyushu on Tuesday, bringing record winds and rain that were expected to affect nearly the entire country.

Japan’s meteorological agency warned that the worst of the storm was yet to come and the weather in Kyushu was expected to be extremely dangerous.

The typhoon, named “Haishen,” made landfall on Kyushu in the early morning hours, bringing strong winds and heavy rain to the region.

The government urged residents to stay indoors and avoid unnecessary travel.

The prime minister, Yoshihide Suga, called for a nationwide evacuation and warned that the storm surge could be as high as 10 meters in some areas.

The government declared a state of emergency for several prefectures, including Fukuoka and Saga, where the storm was expected to hit hardest.

The weather agency said the typhoon could become stronger as it moves north and could cause more damage in the days ahead.

The government also urged people to prepare for potential power outages and to listen for evacuation orders.

With many of the Taliban’s infrastructure and communications networks destroyed by previous US strikes, it remains to be seen if the government’s plans to reform the country’s justice system will be successful.

AFP

US blogger approaches court over rejection of visa extension

ISLAMABAD: US blogger Chimpa Dhiitu has been granted permission to seek a visa extension in the Islamabad High Court (IHC) yesterday after the interior minister’s decision to deny her visa extension.

In the petition, Ms Dhiitu, who is an IHC party secretary, and director-general Federal Elderly and Disabled Affairs told the court that the government had not come forward to explain why her visa extension had been denied.

Ms Dhiitu had approached the court to seek an extension of her visa to help her continue her stay in Pakistan to take up her responsibilities.

She had been in Pakistan since 2018, when the country’s Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) had refused to renew her visa after she had been charged in a case that was later dropped.

Ms Dhiitu had approached the court to seek an extension of her visa to help her continue her stay in Pakistan to take up her responsibilities.

She had been in Pakistan since 2018, when the country’s Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) had refused to renew her visa after she had been charged in a case that was later dropped.

Ms Dhiitu had approached the court to seek an extension of her visa to help her continue her stay in Pakistan to take up her responsibilities.

She had been in Pakistan since 2018, when the country’s Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) had refused to renew her visa after she had been charged in a case that was later dropped.

Ms Dhiitu had approached the court to seek an extension of her visa to help her continue her stay in Pakistan to take up her responsibilities.

She had been in Pakistan since 2018, when the country’s Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) had refused to renew her visa after she had been charged in a case that was later dropped.

Ms Dhiitu had approached the court to seek an extension of her visa to help her continue her stay in Pakistan to take up her responsibilities.

She had been in Pakistan since 2018, when the country’s Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) had refused to renew her visa after she had been char...
Climate activists disrupt UK newspaper deliveries

AS – LONDON

Climate change protesters in Britain blocked two printing presses yesterday, disrupting the distribution of numerous national newspapers for up to 10 days of protests demand- ing fundamental ecological reforms.

A group of Extinction Rebellion (XR) targeted both the plants in north-west England and in the south of England, delivering papers including The Times, The Sun and The Daily Mail.

The groups are using disruption as a way to manipulate the truth to suit their own personal and political agendas,” added in a statement.

Police said they had so far made 32 arrests at various locations, and warned that printing had been transferred to other sites and appointments to customers for ‘late deliveries’.

The Times also apologised to readers unable to buy copies, and said on Twitter it was “working to get newspapers delivered to readers as soon as possible.”

The blockade prompted an immediate reaction across the British political spectrum.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson said it was “completely unacceptable to seek to limit the public’s access to news in this way.”

A free press is vital in holding the government and other powerful institutions to account on issues critical for the country’s mid- and long-term development.

Mr Johnson said that “anybody who was preventing a free press doing its job should beуть prosecuted.”

Mr Johnson said the group’s disruption was “a matter for the police.”

Overnight print workers, newspaper workers and retail workers have faced delays and financial disruption caused to newspaper deliveries.

US Army Abrams tanks of the 2nd Brigade 69th Regiment 2nd Battalion are pictured at Mockava railway station, in Lithuania.

---

Italy: Berlusconi ‘stable’ after virus hospitalisation

AS – ROMA

Italy’s flamboyant former prime minister Silvio Berlusconi was “a patient of good hope” yesterday after being hospitalised with coronavirus two days ago, his doctor said yesterday.

The 84-year-old media tycoon was being treated for a lung infection at a hospital in Milan where he was admitted on Monday.

“The clinical condition of Silvio Berlusconi is stable,” his doctor Alberto Zanutti told reporters. “His lungs are working normally and his lung infection is under control.”

Zanutti added that Berlusconi was “a patient of good hope” and that he should be able to leave the hospital in a week.

Berlusconi, who once described himself as a “patient of good hope,” has been hospitalised numerous times previously, most recently in March 2020, when he was admitted to hospital for a lung infection.

He had to be put on a ventilator after he developed pneumonia due to COVID-19.

Doctors said at the time that he was in a “serious but stable” condition and that he should recover within a week.

Since then, Berlusconi has been released from hospital and has been seen publically many times, including just a few weeks ago when he was seen in a powerful handshake with the country’s new prime minister, Mario Draghi.

Berlusconi, 85, was hospitalised two weeks ago due to a lung infection.

His doctor Alberto Zanutti said: “Berlusconi is a patient of good hope. His lungs are working normally and his lung infection is under control.”

Dr Zanutti added: “He should be able to leave the hospital in a week.”

Zanutti said that Berlusconi had spent the past two days in hospital, and that he had been “very active” throughout that time.

The billionaire is “a patient of good hope,” his doctor said.

The suspension of Berlusconi’s parliamentary immunity for two years before the coronavirus pandemic hit Italy.

The moves to strip him of the immunity that he has enjoyed for over 20 years, had faced a wave of opposition from all sides of the political spectrum.

But his death was hastened by the spread of the coronavirus pandemic, which has claimed the lives of over 100,000 people worldwide.

With the death of Silvio Berlusconi, Italy has lost one of its most prominent figures, a polarising figure who had been a political force in the country for over half a century, from the mid-1960s until his death in 2021.

The death of Berlusconi, a controversial and divisive figure, has left a void in the Italian political landscape.

A medical team at the Hospital of Barceloneta said the 99-year-old was in a “stable” condition.

The team added that the patient’s condition was “stable,” and that he would be able to return to his home in a week.

The Socialist-eran Rusia, which has long courted Berlusconi as a bulwark against the West, has promised him military support.

It is not the first time the US has supported troops in Russia.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border, was the site of a demonstration yesterday.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya will visit Vilnius on Friday, to meet with Lithuanian leaders.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya was detained and arrested by the Belarusian authorities after hundreds of thousands of protesters took to the streets to demand an end to the repressive regime of Alexander Lukashenko.

The opposition leader was detained on August 10, a day after casting her vote in a presidential election.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.

She said that authorities should allow her to continue her work.

Representatives of the military and the interior ministry of Belarus came to meet with her.

Vilnius, near the Belarus–Lithuania border.
US President Donald Trump has directed government agencies to end anti-trac theory trainings for federal employees, the Wall Street Journal reported on Friday, citing unnamed administration officials.

The White House has come under fire for anti-trac theory training, with several Democratic lawmakers calling for the administration to stop the trainings after protests over racism and police brutality. The President on Thursday made the first known reference to the training, saying the White House was “looking into it.”

Anti-government protest in Chile

Chile police made multiple arrests overnight on Friday as the country’s main opposition parties called for new demonstrations against US racism and police brutality, which have at times turned violent.

Police arrested 27 people, mostly protesters, during a protest against police brutality and violations of human rights after not complying with orders to clear the area, according to the security forces that issued the order.

Portland arrest parade 27 as US city nears 100 days of protests

Portland police made multiple arrests overnight on Friday as the city nears 100 days of demonstrations against US racism and police brutality, which have at times turned violent.

Police arrested 27 people, mostly protesters, during a protest against police brutality and violations of human rights after not complying with orders to clear the area, according to the security forces that issued the order.

Portland police arrest parade 27 as US city nears 100 days of protests

Portraits of police officers are displayed at the Portland police union building during a protest against racial injustice and police brutality in Portland, Oregon, on Friday.

A crowd marshals toward the Portland police union building during a protest against racial injustice and police brutality in Portland, Oregon, on Friday.

US President Donald Trump has directed government agencies to end anti-trac theory trainings for federal employees, the Wall Street Journal reported on Friday, citing unnamed administration officials.

The White House has come under fire for anti-trac theory training, with several Democratic lawmakers calling for the administration to stop the trainings after protests over racism and police brutality. The President on Thursday made the first known reference to the training, saying the White House was “looking into it.”